

Anton, Eduard, Salome and Pepe are animal friends. They spend a lot of time together and have the same hobby: they play the flute—preferably together. In the evening, they are going to give a concert. Until then, they spend the time hiking in the jungle. They have packed their flutes for their hike, from the largest to the smallest one—I wonder what they sound like?

An amusing story to read and hear, with various pieces of music to listen to. Caution: The four animals' adventure could make you want to listen to music. That would make them all: the monkey, the elephant, the snake and the parrot very happy!
A book about friendship and the diversity of music.

"A cool, gorgeous book for children of all ages and their parents and grandparents. A must for flute teachers!"

Karen Lavie (ESA Suzuki Teacher Trainer)

"...I believe that this work will be a valuable and cheerful inspiration for many children and their teachers."

Peter-Lukas Graf (Flutist)

"An educationally valuable and wonderfully successful work of art for young and old! The humorous, witty story is exciting for adventurous people, music lovers and flute fans."

Cornelia Thorspecken (Solopiccolist Staatstheater Wiesbaden)

"A flute story and picture audio book that makes you want to make music and introduces the transverse flute as a versatile and beautiful-sounding instrument in a variety of ways."

Barbara Metzger (Professor of elementary music education)

9798332065743

Britta Roscher

Breath, puff, bubble, splutter

A flute concert in the jungle

Illustrated by
Dietmar Bertram